What do we need to bring to the exam?

- Government issued photo ID/passport to be shown before being permitted to take the exam.
 - Laptop & charger with webcam and microphone to take the exam on. This is an internet based virtually proctored exam.
 - The following books from The Uptime® Elements™ Body of Knowledge:
 - The (5) Passports (REM, WEM, ACM, LER, AM)
 - The Reliability Leadership Manifesto
 - The Uptime® Elements™ Key Terms & Definitions
- This set of books is allowed to be referenced during the exam. In fact, they are the only things allowed for reference. Please take all notes in the back of the Passports – external notes are not permitted.

What is the Recommended Study Material for the CRL Exam?

The Uptime® Elements™ Passport Series or full Body of Knowledge is the recommended study material. These books are recommended resources and should be reviewed and studied prior to and in preparation for the exam. These resources help set examinees up for success in passing the Certified Reliability Leader (CRL) exam.

Certified Reliability Leader® Exam Q & A

Is the CRL Exam open book?

Yes. The Uptime® Elements™ Passport Series or Body of Knowledge is allowed to be referenced during the exam. In fact, they are the only things allowed for reference. Please take all notes in the back of the Passports – external notes are not permitted.

Is there a practice test or sample questions?

Sample questions are available in Uptime® Elements Certified Reliability Leader Exam Study Guide and Learning Exercises Workbook. (This book is not permitted during the exam).

Are all of the questions on the exam from the The Uptime® Elements™ Passport Series or full Body of Knowledge?

No. The exam is based on the Uptime Elements Passport series. There are other questions involved (tribal knowledge, technical experience, leadership, integrity, etc.) The exam is 125 multiple choice questions with a 2-hour time limit.

Why is unauthorized or copied Uptime® Elements Body of Knowledge material prohibited?

The Uptime® Elements Body of Knowledge is copyrighted intellectual property of Reliability Leadership Institute®. The only authorized source for it is the Reliability Marketplace. Any copy, scan, summary, "study guide," or question bank obtained anywhere else is unauthorized material, no matter who shared it or how closely it appears to match the original.

Three things follow from that:

- It is illegal. Reproducing or distributing copyrighted material without a license is copyright infringement. Possessing and using it puts you, and anyone who passed it to you, at legal risk.
- It undermines the credential you are working toward. The Certified Reliability Leader® designation carries weight because the people who hold it earned it through the authorized body of knowledge under a common standard. Unauthorized material compromises that integrity for every CRL, including you.
- It does not work. Copied and third-party materials are not maintained by the framework's creator. They drift from the current Body of Knowledge, omit revisions, and frequently misstate concepts. Nothing in them is guaranteed to align with the official exam. Candidates who prepare from unauthorized sources are studying for a different exam than the one they will sit.

Prepare from the authorized Uptime® Elements Body of Knowledge, obtained through Reliability Marketplace. Nothing else is approved, and nothing else is necessary.
